The Anti-Lottery bill was passed in the Senate yesterday unanimously. One thing, at least, has been done by this Fifty-first Congress which bears the stamp of right law-making, and every citizen in the land should be glad of it.

To praise an official in a position of great trust for being honorable and faithful to his duty is a sad commentary on existing integrity in high places. If the standard of actual principle were what it should be an official of this kind should regard praise for the performance of his simple duty as an insult. But the fact remains that the nation will feel grateful to the Senate for its exemplary unanimity in stamping on the many-headed lottery hydra. Especially so since the lottery agents have haunted the lobbies of the Capitol, insinuating large checks into the field of vision of several Senators.

Whatever the motive may have been which led the Senate as one man to pass SHARESPEARS. Henry VI. ### FREE ART.

No one of any cultivation questions the advantages and pleasures which are conferred by works of art. True art is ennobling and refining, and there is no justice or reason in handleapping its educational force by heavy duties.

It is almost a disgrace to the Senate that it should have included works of art in Shall die and leave his errand unfulfilled. the list of dutiable imports. It is bad Lowell. A Glance Behind the Curtain. Line enough for narrow prejudice to shut the museums of art in cities on Sunday, the one day of the week when such a place can exert its largest beneficence. But to make it difficult for the exquisite creations of the highest mental powers to enter the country at all is a coarser piece jury to his ankle.

The Conference Committee on the Mc-Kinley Bill has a golden opportunity for mostly in the crews of his club, will next season restoring art work to the free list, and it is to be hoped that the Committee will that he can speed a single shell through the same of complexion artists, water at a very rapid rate. avail itself of it. ## A FAIR COUNT.

The recount of the Second Ward shows an increase of 30 per cent, over the official census returns. While it would be too much to infer that the same disproportion will obtain in every ward, this sample of exceeding faultiness is enough to warrant a new count of this town.

Now is a favorable time, and the work should be done with conscientious pains. taking. Let us know just how many we are, as a matter of justice. An enumeration which gives wrong figures is worse than none at all. But there should be no shortcomings in the recount.

Some solution of the shameful school difficulty by which hundreds of children are wasting the precious time in which they should be harvesting an education, because there is not room for them in the existing schools, should be discovered promptly. Mayor Guant is taking a praiseworthy interest in the matter, and favors the renting of certain buildings to be used temporarily as schools. This is not a bad idea. Something should be done at once.

The peach crop seems to be too tender to flourish except under the most favorable conditions, But that hardy fruit. the apple, is certainly becoming very airy when it declines to materialize for the benefit of people in the Winter. There are people odd enough to like eating apples, and the perverse failure of the Winter crop of the coming year, which is now announced, must disgust them.

The Police Board has very properly granted an extension of five months to Supt. MURRAY in which to perfect a cure The imperative need of further recu peration on the part of the efficient Superintendent of Police was vouched for by Dr. Cook. It is a little hard to see why President McLEAN, of the Police Board, should have voted to deny the needed rest to Supt. Mounty.
